202 Coast Artillery at Camp Grayling

600 CHICAGO GUARDSMEN BUSY IN TRAINING

The entire 202nd Coast Artillery of Chicago arrived at Camp Grayling Saturday afternoon for their annual summer camp, and are here for two weeks of intensive military training. Machine gun and light anti-aircraft artillery batteries compose the 202nd regiment.

Saturday afternoon the guardsmen came via the Michigan Central R. R. which brought them to the camp's railroad station, proceeded to the grounds and immediately pitched tents. Saturday and Sunday were declared holidays and the boys were permitted to spend their time in enjoying various recreations at the camp.

Monday morning the bugle sounded at 5:45 a. m., and work began for two weeks. The first thing the guardsmen must do in the morning is to make their cots, go through fifteen minutes of strenuous exercise, clean the grounds and then eat in the mess halls. An hour of drill follows and the boys have to snap into the manual of arms, pick up their rifles and move again. When this is finished they return to their tents, dress in denims, and leave for the fields in big liberties to prepare the French 75's and machine guns for action. Work is stopped at noon, the boys return for mess and rest for an hour. They again return to the fields and devote the remainder of the afternoon to firing the guns. Three o'clock the return to camp and enjoy swimming, baseball, indoor and many other camp sports and making happy and healthy guardsmen.

Balloons are used as targets for the machine guns and an aeroplane with a towed aerial target is used for the French 75's. Several night attacks will take place and searchlights locate the targets for the guns. It will be an uncommon pleasure for the people of Grayling to witness these spectacular events and the public is invited to attend these unusual scenes.

The camp is a real summer resort for all of the boys and they are having the time of their life. This part of Michigan is very warm during the day but turns brisk during the evening so that it is possible for the guardsmen to enjoy a pleasant night's rest. Army chefs prepare the meals and the boys have declared it to be the best " grub " they have ever had at any of their annual summer camps.

Colonel Charles J. Kraft, commanding officer, acclaimed Camp Grayling as having the most beautiful surroundings of any camp which the 202nd C. A. has ever occupied.

We are indeed happy that they enjoy their surroundings and hope they will make use of any conveniences which Grayling is able to offer them.

Some of the events in connection with the training of the Illinois guardsmen that are of special interest to the people of this community are as follows:

Friday night, July 15th, regimental band concert at the court yard, at 7:30 o'clock.

Wednesday night, July 20th, complimentary dancing party by the visiting guardsmen to the citizens of Grayling. This will be held at the school gymnasium and everyone is cordially invited. This will be free to all. Music will be furnished by the regimental band orchestra of 20 pieces.

It is always pleasant to visit the camp at any time but the people are urged to attend during some of the spectacular target practices. Airplanes fly in the night about a mile high and it will be the work of the powerful searchlights to locate them and then it will be for the French 75's guns to try to "brine" them down. Floating balloons is towed behind the planes which will be used as targets. The use of aerial bombs in this practice work make these events most interesting and thrilling. The guardsmen have most generously extended cordial invitations to the public to be present at these times. These firing events will take place at the following dates:

Tonight—Thursday—Testing of the lights and tracking of planes. (All events at 7:00 to 8:30 o'clock.)

Friday night, July 15—Firing at bursts and free balloons.

Monday, July 18th, the same as July 15th, and firing at balloons and towed targets.

Tuesday, July 19th and Thursday, July 21st, service practice.

The guards leave Friday evening on their return trip to Chicago where they are scheduled to arrive sometime on Saturday.

CAMP GROUNDS PROVING POPULAR PLACE

Evidently the bugs and mosquitoes are behaving themselves pretty well, and are not driving tourists out of the camping grounds, for the grove has begun to appear like a little village. It is quite the picturesque spot when the sun is sinking beyond the horizon to see the jagged outline of scattered tents against the sky, offset by occasional pine trees. The usual little camp fires cast a faint glimmer upon the AuSable river which flows through the camp.

It is these beauty spots that make camping a delight. Sleeping in a tent isn't all the conveniences of home but there is something about it that sets "gets" one. More and more people each year pack up the old kit bag and go for a week's outing near some lake or stream. We are glad that so many find the grove a pleasant place to stay. We welcome them and many more who are looking for a good place to camp.

G. FELLOWSHIP PARTY JULY 26

July 26 has been chosen by the ladies of the Good Fellowship club as the date of their annual party at Lake Margrethe. For years affairs similar to this have been successfully given for the purpose of raising money for their charity fund. In the afternoon you will find a very charming bridge and 500 party, and in the evening dancing to Schram's Rhapsodies. Both of these affairs will be held at the Officers' club house.

The use of this money is carefully directed and is used in many cases to help parties that cannot be reached by our county poor board. This includes giving baskets at Christmas time, sponsoring urgent tonsil and adenoid cases, and the supplying of clothing and food in very needy cases.

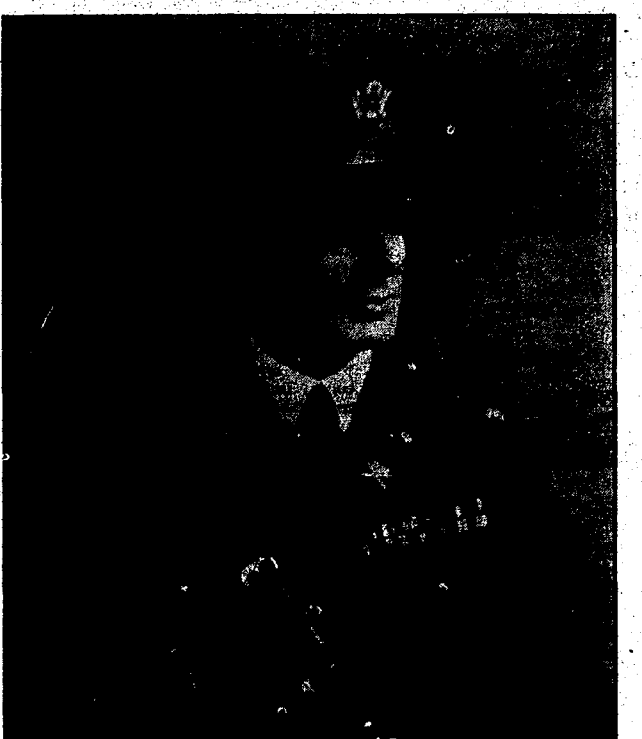

The Good Fellowship club solicits your help as well as your pleasure in their party July 26th at the Officers' club house, Lake Margrethe.

JIGGS AND MAGGIE WILL BE HERE TUESDAY, JULY 19

Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and all the others will be at the big open air theatre on the lot next to the blacksmith shop on U. S. 27, on Tuesday night, July 19th.

Funny, well I should say so. You know I don't care to laugh out loud, for when I do Maggie wallops me over the head with a rolling pin and tells me I'm not refined. So I couldn't laugh, but Dinty, well, I had to put him out of the hall when we were rehearsing because he made a holy show of himself and Maggie said he simply frustrated her—whatever that means. Well, folks, what I am trying to tell you is that this is an entirely new show, a corker and full of fun, plenty of good, clean laughs, lots of pleasing music, and for the first time I am boss. So come and see me in my big tent theatre and I'll give you the time of your life. Honest.

Yours Truly, JIGGS.

OLD RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

Jens Peter Jensen, husband of Maren Johana Jensen, a resident of Grayling for the past forty years, passed away at his home in this city at ten o'clock Monday night, having been ailing since last fall. Apoplexy was the direct cause of the old gentleman's death.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with services at the home on Peninsular avenue, where the family have resided for many years. Rev. Kjolhede conducted the services and many old friends and neighbors were in attendance.

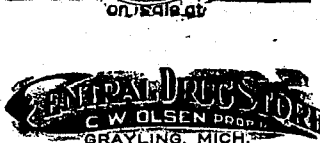

Mr. Jensen was born in Sjalland, Denmark, December 19, 1860, being 66 years, 6 months and 23 days old. When he had grown to manhood he came to the United States, which was forty-one years ago, and located in Grayling the following year. About this time many of the Danish people were immigrating and settling in this northern country.

Mr. Jensen was a farmer by occupation and had operated a farm east of Grayling for many years, it being one of the best tilled in the county. The owner worked from morning until night and put his best efforts into raising stock and chickens and running his farm in general. He took little or no part in civic affairs, but was considered an honest and upright citizen.

Surviving the deceased are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. F. J. Reinhardt of Bay City, two sons, Holger of Evaro, Montana, and Andrew, who came home from the West early in the spring owing to his father's ill health. Also a stepson, Johannes Clauson of this city survives. The remaining members of the family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt of Bay City were in attendance at the funeral.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

The annual school meeting was held at the high school assembly at 8 o'clock p. m. Monday evening.

The meeting was called to order by H. A. Bauman, acting president of the Board. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved, and the financial report was read by the secretary, showing a balance on hand in all funds of $7679.20 July 1st, 1927.

Estimates as voted by District Board amounting to $30,000.00 were read and on motion of Fred Welsh supported by Thos. Cassidy were accepted and adopted.

The election of officers followed and the chair appointed as tellers of the election: O. P. Schumann, C. O. McCullough and Elnor Matson, said officers being sworn by Emil Kraus, justice of the peace.

A ballot was taken and Emil Kraus having a majority of all votes cast was declared elected for the term of three years.

On the next ballot Thorwald P. Peterson having received a majority of all votes cast was declared elected for the full term of three years.

A discussion of school affairs followed, at the close of which it was moved by Mrs. Schumann and supported by C. O. McCullough that a vote of appreciation be given the Board of Education in their work. Motion carried, after which on motion meeting adjourned.

Melvin A. Bates, Secretary.

After the finishing of the business affairs of the meeting, the matter of closing the South Side school was brot up and discussed. For some time it has been rumored that that school would be closed. The Board was asked as to their intention.

Mr. Bauman explained that it would be necessary to reduce the amount of taxes and that the Board had been considering such a move but had not determined whether to do so or not. It seemed to be the opinion of those present at the meeting that it would be the right thing to close that school, PROVIDED that the addition of the children from that school to the main building did not impair the efficiency of the school work there. Everyone of the speakers on the matter seemed to favor the keeping of the schools up to the highest standard.

The matter was left up to the school board to determine. No doubt they will consider the matter very carefully. The main building seems already congested and the adding of about seventy or more additional children to the lower grades seems almost impossible without overcrowding the already congested rooms. Some of the lower grade rooms are small and, where thirty pupils would be about the normal number, are crowded with fifty, as high as forty to more than fifty pupils and girls have been crowded into them. This brings about a restlessness on the part of the pupils and, no matter how capable the teacher may be, she is unable to get as good results under these conditions as could be had under more favorable conditions, and the pupils must suffer for it. Most, if not all, of our highest educational authorities maintain that the first grades are the most important of all in the education of children and it is for these that the best teachers should be secured and the best teaching and studying conditions be maintained.

According to the school census that was taken here in June, there is only one fewer on the list this year than last, and should the families of men who are working at the big mill leave the city, only two will effect the South Side school, according to one of the teachers there, so it doesn't seem that there is going to be much of a slump in the school attendance.

The matter of the Library fund was talked over. It seems that in the year 1915, when the new school building was about to open, a district school library was established and township fund abandoned, thus the school is receiving practically all the money from the penal fines that come to this district. The township library is used far more extensively than the school library by the reading public but the lack of funds prohibits the township library from being supplied with up-to-date books. On the contrary, the school library has been buying books heavily for a number of years past and besides has at this time more than $2,500 on hand. This condition should be remedied so that the greatest good may come to the people from the money that is taken into the courts for penal fines, which the statutes direct may be used for library uses only.

NATIONAL GUARDS PLAN AIR COMBATS

State Encampment to be Marked by Plane Maneuvers.

Lansing, July 14.—(A.P.)—Air combats and maneuvers will mark the annual encampment of the Michigan national guard for the first time this year, according to Colonel John S. Bersey, adjutant-general. The guard obtained a squadron of four planes recently. Landing fields have been provided in Detroit, where headquarters are maintained, and at Grayling, where the encampment will be held.

The encampment will open August 2, according to a schedule by Colonel Bersey. The first unit to reach Grayling will be the 182nd field artillery. It will be followed by the 106th cavalry on August 4, the state staff headquarters staff of the 32nd division, special troops of the 32nd division, the 63rd infantry brigade, made up of the 125th and 126th infantry regiments, the 107th medical regiment and the 107th observation squadron, with the 19th field artillery on August 9. All detachments will remain in camp 14 days.

Colonel Bersey expects an attendance of about 4,000 officers and men. In addition to the regular Michigan organization there will be officers from division headquarters in Wisconsin and observers from the regular army.

The Grayling camp is in a better condition than ever before, Colonel Bersey said. Arrangements have been made for combat problems. Recreational facilities will be plentiful. The medical regiment, which is motorized, will move over-land to the camp. The other units will be transported by train.—Detroit Free Press.

AIR UNIT PREPARES FOR GRAYLING TRIP.

Practice Flight to Flint Was Scheduled for Sunday.

As a preliminary to the two weeks of intensive aerial military training scheduled to take place at Camp Grayling during two weeks of August, four airplanes of the 107th Observation squadron, Michigan National guard, took off from their Rouge park air field last Sunday morning for a cross country flight to Flint and return to Detroit.

During the flight the National guard airmen retained a military formation, and following the return to Detroit, went through a number of the maneuvers they will be called

HEAVY ROAD TRAFFIC LAST SUNDAY

COMMISSION TAKES TOLL OF STATE HIGHWAYS

There was heavy traffic on nearly all highways in and around Grayling last Sunday, according to the record obtained by the County Road commission.

A 14 hour record was kept of the number of vehicles passing over the several roads in this vicinity and the results obtained were as follows:

Trunk line U. S. 27, Grayling to Frederic, 1113; Frederic to Gaylord, 1081; Grayling to Roscommon, 1002; South of Roscommon, 1016. M-33, Grayling-Lake Margrethe, 1081; Grayling-Lake, 235; Grayling-Kalkaska, 61. Higgins Lake, 187. The Kalkaska road bed had just been plowed up and was almost impassable, therefore many took another route via T-Town, otherwise this road would have shown a bigger toll. The repairs were finished Monday and the highway is now in excellent shape.

It is expected that another toll of the highways will be taken next Sunday.

upon to perform at the state encampment.

In addition to Major Floyd E. Evans, commanding officer, members of the squadron who took the trip were: Captains Carl B. Squier, Frederick H. Anderson and Joseph A. Nowicki, Lieutenants Henry O. Ogden, Howard L. Emhoff, Frank P. O'Neill and Master Sergeant Thomas Robert.

When the National Guard annual encampment begins at Grayling, August 6, the 107th squadron will co-operate with ground units in carrying out sham warfare. It will be the first time an aviation unit, as a part of the Michigan National guard, has participated in the annual training period.

FREE CHEST CLINIC NEXT MONDAY

The date for the free chest clinic has been set for next Monday, July 18 and will be held at the high school building. A representative of the Michigan Tuberculosis association will be in the city Monday and Tuesday making the arrangements for this clinic.

The clinic is sponsored by the above association and the financial part is covered by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, the drive for which is carried on during Christmas time in Michigan. The generous purchase of these seals by Crawford county residents enables the association to put on this clinic again this summer, so that the people of the county who wish to avail themselves of a chest examination may do so.

The symptoms of tuberculosis are a persistent cough, a continued tired feeling, loss of weight and an afternoon fever, so if you have such, attend the clinic.

Children under 16 years of age should be accompanied by father or mother.

The examination is free of charge.

WELCOME TO GRAYLING!
THE 202ND Coast Artillery of Chicago are now at Camp Grayling. We hope they will enjoy their visit and accomplish splendid results while camping there. Grayling invites you to make use of every possible convenience we are able to offer you, and hopes that you will permit us to assist you in every manner possible. Colonel Charles, commanding officer of the 202nd C. A. should indeed be proud of the fine young men who are in this regiment. They have conducted themselves at all times as gentlemen when visiting our city, and it would be a great pleasure for us to have this military organization again visit Grayling. A number of concerts and a military dance have been planned through the courtesy of Captain P. J. Malloy, chaplain of the 202nd regiment, and we want every one in Grayling to become acquainted with the men of this organization. Everyone is publicly invited. We wish you, Col. Kraft, the very best of success and hope that you will again honor our city with the presence of the 202nd coast artillery.

IT DOESN'T PAY

One of our young Grayling lads was in the guard house of the Illinois National guard at Camp Grayling one day this week, charged with stealing money from the clothing of an officer. It appears that the youngster was shining shoes in camp and took advantage of rifling the clothing in the tents while the occupants were away.

The young man was caught and punished, and a number of other shine artists who were bent upon making a little money during the summer were punished too because of this thief. Orders were issued, and we believe properly too, that no more shoe shine boys would be permitted in camp.

Of course the boys were disappointed, but they didn't seem to blame the officers, but were pretty sore on the fellow who caused all the trouble.

We understand this isn't the first time this young man has been implicated in misdemeanor. By his acts he has not only brought disgrace to himself but he has earned the scorn of the young lads of the town. Because of his youth we withhold his name from the public. Unless this young chap gets hold of himself and learns honesty is the only course that can bring happiness, then he is on the road to a lot of grief. Shunned by his associates and living in everlasting fear of punishment is the lot that is usually doled out to those who enter crime for making a livelihood. Just such starts as this young man has made usually end in crime.

The 202nd Coast Artillery will give a band concert Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock eastern standard time, in the band stand on the court house lawn. This promises to be a mighty fine concert, as the regiment claim to have some very high class musicians among them. Let's all turn out. This will be a very interesting affair. It will be given under the auspices of Grayling American Legion Post No. 106.

Travel on the road going to the Danish landing is rather hard owing to the road being under repair. This is state road M-76 and will mean a great deal to those traveling to Kalkaska, Traverse City and other points in this territory. Mr. Hanna advises, that while the road will not be entirely finished this year, it will be graded and fixed so that traveling on same will be much easier than it has been in the past.

Just take your yard stick and place your finger at 21 inches and that will show you just how long a small-mouth black bass was that was caught by C. W. Lydick in Lake Margrethe last Sunday. That was a whopper, everyone will agree. It weighed a full five and a quarter pounds and measured twelve and a half inches in circumference. It was a very fine specimen and a prize that isn't to be had every season. Two years ago Mr. Lydick was lucky enough to catch a similar bass that weighed six and a quarter pounds. He, with his wife, occupy the Mrs. J. E. Richard cottage on the west side of the lake.

The 202nd Coast Artillery of Illinois is at Camp Grayling at Lake Margrethe for the first time. The regiment consists of about five hundred men, who arrived at the camp Saturday. They are an anti-aircraft regiment and train to bring down the enemies' planes in time of war. They have some very fine planes here and are now in full training. This camp is new to the Illinois company, so they are unfamiliar with the things in Grayling. Let us, the people of Grayling, show them that we are welcome by giving our hearty co-operation in anything they do. They intend to give some very fine band concerts and also complimentary dances for our people. Everyone is invited to watch the batteries in action. The night bombarding promises to be interesting and colorful. They begin this practice after dark. Let us all take an interest in the company's endeavors and make them feel that they have been repaid for their efforts so that they will want to return to this camp each and every year for their annual encampment.

THE H. JARMIN INJUNCTION CASE

CLINKOFSTINE & PIGGOTT GIVE 6 MONTHS TO REMOVE PROPERTY

Circuit Court Grants Divorce Decrees

The Harold G. Jarmin vs. Clinkofstine & Piggott injunction case heard before the circuit court was the biggest attraction of the session. Attorneys for both sides fought bitterly to win their cases and there was a great deal of talk and much offered in evidence. The outcome was that Judge Sharpe rendered a decision giving the respondents six months in which to remove the balance of the property and that they are to pay Mr. Jarmin $150.00 per month rental until they have completed the work or the time limit has expired. He extended the plaintiff a 20-day stay of execution.

In the case of The People vs. C. H. Marker, assault, the defendant plead not guilty and the case was continued to the next term.

William Preston, who is over 70 years old, plead guilty to violation of the liquor law and was sentenced from six months to one year in the penitentiary.

The case of Roy Wells, for violation of the liquor law was bound over to the next term of court.

Decrees were granted in the cases of Alden Pagel vs. Margaret Pagel and John Fleming vs. Lottie Fleming, divorce.

A petition for naturalization was granted to Paul Bruno Jungmann. The following cases were continued to the next term of court: The People vs. Frank Millikin, rape; Hattie B. Mosher vs. Stella Archambeau, trespass on the case; Charles W. Kuehl vs. Thomas E. Douglas, trespass on the case; South Branch Unit Branch School district vs. Susan Funck, et al, bill to quiet title. The American State Bank vs. James E. Kellogg, et al, foreclosure. Myrtle M. Ross vs. Henry Ross, divorce.

HOW A FARMING COMMUNITY WAS REBUILT AGAIN

Glass factories and coal mines had kept the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and the banker busy the year round in Point Mar, Pennsylvania. Hired men left the farms followed by the farm owners to get their share of the attractive wages.

Suddenly labor saving machinery was brought in to the old hand method window glass factories. The coal business took a drop and hundreds of people had to find new employment. Savings accounts dwindled. Deposits of the two banks dropped off almost a million dollars.

"Bring in more industries," was being sung at luncheon clubs all over the land, every town seemed to be advertising unlimited water supply, cheap fuel and free factory sites. Competition was keen and the reward doubtful.

The question came, "Why not stimulate the agricultural pursuits of the community which have lain dormant so long?" Farm income might be increased and production costs lowered in many instances.

The first move of one of the banks was the purchase of healthy chicks. These were furnished by the bank at wholesale to interested farmers, payment to be made by note payable in six months. The bank followed through by aiding in the dissemination of culling and feeding knowledge and by helping to market the cockerels which in most instances paid the initial cost of all the chicks.

"1927 YEAR WITHOUT SUMMER," SAYS SEER

He Also Predicts Slim Crop Production.

Washington.—The weather, ever a favorite and inexhaustible conversational topic, is the bone of contention in a red-hot controversy between meteorologists here, with the immediate welfare of the nation in the balance.

If one group of scientists, headed by government weather forecasters, has the correct side of the argument, the present winter will be not much different from other winters and next year will record the seasons in regular order.

If the government experts and their supporters are wrong, however, the severe cold weather that already has been experienced by residents of Illinois is but a forerunner of even worse things in store for them, which will be the prelude of a "year without a summer."

Predicts Slim Crops.

Herbert Janvyn Brown, a long-range weather forecaster, told a gathering of county farm agents here that the present winter will be unusually severe and that the fall of snow and the thermometer will be unprecedented during the last half century. He also predicted that there will be little warm weather next year, to which he added the ominous forecast that crop production would be slim and that there is a strong probability that the output of American farms would be unequal to the national appetite.

The government weather bureau counters with the statement that Brown doesn't know anything about future weather conditions, and that in this respect he is no better informed than are other meteorologists. Experience has demonstrated that it is not safe, nor is it possible, to look ahead longer than a week, and that long-range forecasting at best is guessing, and not a very good guessing at that, according to federal authority.

In rebuttal of this contention, Brown declares that since 1920 he has accurately forecast weather a year ahead, and that on the basis of his predictions he has made crop estimates that have been more reliable than have been those of the Department of Agriculture, which is official guardian of the weather.

Brown bases his weather predictions on ocean currents, which he claims determine the weather conditions of this continent. During the last several years there have been pronounced changes in these currents, the most important of which has been a decided drop in their temperature, and from this he argues that 1927 is to be a repetition of 1815, which is said to have been a "year without a summer," with almost complete crop failure north of Tennessee.

Volcanic Activity Needed.

A year ago Brown declared that the only phenomena needed to fulfill his forecast was volcanic activity, which, he said, would lift the upper atmosphere with dust particles and reduce the sun's heat. He now points out that Vesuvius by its recent eruption has supplied this omission, and he declares that he is more convinced than ever that the present winter will be a record-breaker for cold and snow, and that the accompanying chilling of the earth crust, with colder ocean currents and reduced solar heat, will make the ensuing summer one long to be remembered by those who survive it.

It is conceded by weather sharps that so far this season Brown has had all the "breaks," the Northern states having had more than a normal amount of low temperature. Government forecasters, however, refuse to concede that the weather of the last few days is a sample of what is in store for the balance of the winter, and they laugh at the suggestion that there will be ice and snow in all the Northern states every month of 1927, as Brown declares will be the case.

Student Rides Horse 42 Miles to School Daily

Lincoln, Ark.—Riding 42 miles each day on horseback probably would have been ample amusement for the four famous horsemen if the journey were relayed in four equal parts. But John McDonald, of this place, rides a horse 42 miles daily without relays to attend the University High school, at Fayetteville, Ark.

McDonald mounts his steed at 4 o'clock each morning and gallops to school 21 miles away, arriving there in time for the session beginning at 8 o'clock. He is in classes until noon, when he enters his lunch and heads his horse for Lincoln again.

The youth is carrying on an agricultural project at his home and refuses to give up his long rides by moving to Fayetteville.

New Steamship Has All Marks of Huge Ice Box

Tacoma, Wash.—Robinson Crusoe would have lived kingily if his wrecked ship had been the Stuart-Star, a modern new refrigerated vessel. This ship has 55 compartments, each separate in itself for various perishable products. It can carry fish, frozen meats, chilled meats, fruits of all kinds, or any sort of foodstuffs requiring a fixed temperature for preservation. In sailing from here for Europe the Stuart-Star was loaded with many kinds of perishable Northwest products assured of safe delivery by 40 miles of refrigerator piping.

Big Irish Fund Goes

Back to Subscribers

New York.—In a 25-page decision, which reviewed the history of Ireland since 1800, Supreme Court Justice Peters denied the Irish Free State claim to $2,500,000 raised in the United States by the Irish republic.

The justice also ruled out the claim of Eamon de Valera, former president of the republic and trustee for the bondholders who subscribed the funds. Under the decision, the $2,500,000 is to be returned to the subscribers. First, however, the expenses of counsel in the long legal battle are to be deducted.

These expenses are heavy. The immediate return to the subscribers will be made still smaller by another factor. The republic campaigners raised $6,000,000 in the United States. Of this all but the $2,500,000 affected by the recent decision was sent to Ireland during the struggle to establish in the island a sovereign and single nation. The $2,500,000, therefore, must be spread over a wide field by pro rata distribution.

The outstanding detail of the decision is that Justice Peters finds the Irish republic never existed. He holds the republican movement never got beyond the revolt stage.

SHEFFIELD RESIGNS AS ENVOY TO MEXICO

Retiring Ambassador Warns of Impending Crisis Involving Oil Property.

Rapid City, S. D.—James R. Sheffield has resigned as American ambassador to Mexico and reported to President Coolidge an alleged new and serious crisis which threatens tremendous American investments there. The resignation was accepted.

The nature of the new impending crisis Sheffield refused to reveal publicly.

"It cannot come from me," he said. "It must come only from the State Department."

He was asked if the "new crisis" was the suit of the Standard Oil company and others, now in the Mexican courts, to permit drilling for oil on the land acquired previous to adoption of the Mexican constitution of 1917.

"No, it is separate from that," he said.

It was recalled to Sheffield that President Coolidge, in his New York speech, declared he had received assurances of Ambassador Teller that Mexico would refrain from confiscation of land and that President Calles had warmly approved the President's speech.

"Are those assurances being violated?" Sheffield was asked.

He paused and finally replied: "I must decline to answer."

"Are the oil and land investments jeopardized by Mexico's actions?" Sheffield was asked.

"They are," he replied.

President Coolidge praised the courage and ability of Mr. Sheffield in a letter accepting his resignation.

Sheffield met the correspondents at the summer executive offices after two days of conferences with President Coolidge. He was exceedingly serious.

Sheffield denied reports he had been recalled.

Federal Grain Exchange

Control Will Be Sought

Washington.—Failure of the Kessinger bill and its companion measure, the grain warehouse bill, in the Illinois legislature to become a law will be followed by a drive for the enactment of federal legislation along the same lines at the next session of congress, it is reported here. High officials of the Department of Agriculture have been advised that grain producers and farmers' grain marketing organizations are determined to carry their fight to the national capital next winter. Officials expressed no opinions on the reported determination of the grain producers, nor have they given the matter any consideration. Contrasting the Kessinger bill, proposing to regulate grain exchanges, with the grain futures act, however, it was pointed out that the former has more "teeth" than the latter. Grain farmers and producers' marketing organizations in the Middle West, officials understand, are advocating federal intervention.

Chicago.—A flood light tower, 1,320 feet high and topped with a dirigible mooring mast and an aircraft beacon visible from Springfield or Grand Rapids on a clear night, may greet the eyes of Chicago's world fair visitors in 1933.

Plans for construction of such a tower in compliment to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were received by Mayor Thompson from Samuel Insull, Jr., chairman of the centennial committee of the Electrical Association of Chicago. Engineers of the association drafted the specifications.

Special Session Plea

Is Withdrawn by Reed

St. Louis.—A special session of congress for enactment of flood relief measures no longer is advocated by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, although he waged a vigorous fight for an extra session after the most damaging flood in the Mississippi valley last spring. He believes it is too late now for any good to come from an extra session of congress.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Creeping Concrete

Concrete highways, now familiar in most states of the Union, will creep several inches in the course of a few miles, even over hills and around turns. This, of course, is due to expansion by heat. They likewise shrink because of lack of heat. For this reason due allowance is made so that bridges will not be damaged or the road buckle.

Health News

(By the County Nurse)

The twentieth century has been called the "Age of Science" and it is highly significant that a large bulk of work accomplished in research has been in the line of health work.

Safely the race leaves behind it the fanaticism of the middle ages, when people were taught to torment and often even disfigure the body in the interest of a thing of the past.

We pause to pay homage to ancient Greece whence came the ideal of physical perfection and, aided by science, we go out to conquer disease, to build for the improvement of men, women and children.

Good health, again, the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow that everyone of us seeks. Not one corner in the field of human life need be neglected in the present day and age.

Until recently nobody ever thought of teeth as an important factor in the problem of disease. However, it is now definitely known that bad teeth can be the source of a number of infectious diseases, especially diseases of the heart, blood, kidneys, and joints.

Development of the X-Ray has shown infected roots of teeth to be the obscure cause of many "rheumatic" and other joint troubles. Now this is very commonly known.

A great many parents, who otherwise keep careful watch over their children's health, are inclined to be careless about the condition of not only baby teeth, but the first permanent teeth which are of such importance to the development of the jaw and the general nutrition. They do not realize that it is just as important to care for the first set of teeth as for the second, for a number of reasons. Although they are only temporary their development determine the shape and size of the upper and lower jaw bones. They also condition the maturing of the second set for if temporary teeth are lost too early permanent teeth do not have the proper stimulus for growth. Finally, good oral hygiene is as important for the child as it is for the adult.

How much remains to be done in the way of public education about teeth is indicated by figures compiled by physicians which show that the number of children with decayed teeth varies in different localities from 50 to 98 per cent. Yet America is ahead of other countries when it comes to dentistry. I have found in my dental work here in Grayling that the children's teeth are in rather bad shape, but that very much to the credit of their parents, they are quickly taken care of when they are told of the necessity. It will be remembered that a 65 per cent correction was made in one school room in one month. This demonstrates what can be done in a corrective work.

Scientists have found that the quality of a child's teeth is determined in part before birth. It is therefore declared important that the mother select articles of diet from food with a high calcium content. Milk contains more than 44 per cent calcium and is therefore a very important food. Other foods containing high percentages of calcium are spinach, onions, molasses, dried beans, and figs.

After birth the importance of diet from this standpoint must not be forgotten. Oral hygiene is not entirely a toothbrush affair, though it is a toothbrush affair. There is too much of a tendency to blame a child's decayed teeth to candy and soft food.

A large number of cavities in the teeth of the young children indicate soft, poorly calcified teeth as well as lack of attention to their cleaning. Teeth that have a poor enamel coating are usually the result of poor general health or more often of a diet that contains insufficient and incorrect building materials to make them strong and hard. A child's diet should contain plenty of milk, fruit, vegetables, cereals and rough breads.

Furthermore, a child should be taught to chew his food properly. What a child is not taught he does not know. Not only will this be an aid to digestion, but it is necessary for jaw and tooth development in early life and for maintaining the health of the teeth and gums throughout life. It hardly seems necessary to emphasize the necessity for adequate prophylactic and dental care. The teeth should be cleaned thoroughly after each meal and before retiring. Clean a child's teeth as soon as they appear and take him regularly to consult a dentist, beginning when he is about two and a half years old. If this is not your habit, start it now; you cannot do it sooner and you might forget it later or be too busy.

First Nail-Making Machine

On December 28, 1810, was patented the first machine for making wrought iron nails. Seth Boyden of Foxboro, Mass., was the inventor. The invention was of great importance, because prior to this time nails were made by hand.

CONSTANTINOPLE MAY CHANGE NAME

City by the Bosphorus Known by Many Titles.

Washington.—The suggestion has been made in Turkey that Constantinople be renamed for Kemal Pasha, president of the republic.

Constantinople has had many names at various times, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters.

"Not for 400 years has Constantinople been Constantinople to the Turks. It is Istanbul to them. Some geographical title experts hold that Stamboul has been abbreviated by the Turks from Constantinople just as they abbreviated Thessalonica (Salonica) to Selanik. There are two other contentions. One is that Stamboul is a corruption of a phrase which the Turkish invaders heard the Greeks say, 'ees teen poleen,' literally 'to the city.' Another supposition is that 'Islam,' meaning 'true believing,' and 'bul,' meaning 'copious,' have been welded together by the Turks into Stamboul, 'abounding in the true Moslem faith.'

"Emperor Constantine, for whom Constantinople is named, did not himself give it that name. On May 11, 330 A. D., Constantine called together a mass meeting in the newly completed hippodrome. It was a ceremony of rejoicing. A new city had been built, destined to succeed Rome as capital of the Roman empire for 11 centuries. At the high point of the hippodrome paganant Constantine dedicated the city to Christianity and named it Nova Roma.

"It was the Greeks who called it Constantinoupolis and finally it became Constantinople. The patriarch of the Greek church still signs his title 'bishop of Constantinople, New Rome,' but Nova Roma was forgotten. So was the original name, Byzantium for King Byzas, a local ruler, who first built a town on the Golden Horn peninsula.

"Turks have had other affectionate names for Constantinople just as Americans call New York, Father Knickerbocker. Sometimes the Turks call it Oumumoudina, 'the Mother of the World,' and sometimes Istanbul, 'the City of Islam.' Another name is Der el Saadet, 'the City of Felicity.' Arabs call it by a name which is significant, El Farruch, 'the Earth Divider.'

Government Railroad Reports $1,116,000 Loss

Washington.—While the railroads throughout the United States are enjoying their greatest period of prosperity, the only government-owned line—the Alaskan railroad—sustained a loss of $1,116,000 for the year, its general manager reported to the secretary of the interior recently.

Revenues of the road increased by $206,274 during the year, while operating expenses were cut $298,000. Plans for the completion of the road and purchase of modern equipment call for an expenditure of approximately $12,000,000 during the next few years.

Here Are New Words, Take 'Em or Leave 'Em

London.—Mayfair has developed two new slang words which are now being worked overtime.

"Marabout" is one and it is used to describe anything old-fashioned or dowdy. It is a very elastic word, however, and at the Kit Cat club it was heard applied to everything from one's enemies to a drink of which someone did not approve. It is a noun.

The other word is a synonym of "marabout" and is used both as a noun and an adjective. It is "cagmag," a variation is "cagmaggy."

Sand Heralds Knell of Artificial Lighting

Darrington, Wash.—Here's a mighty interesting incident, if true, vouched for by George Van Cleve which heralds the knell of artificial lighting. Recently Van Cleve plastered his basement, using material from a sand vein found near here. At all times the walls radiate light, the sand possessing radioactive properties. Samples of the sand vein are being analyzed by the geologists at the state university.

Anatomy of Hindu Lad Seems to Be All Wrong

Bombay.—Medical science is baffled by the strange case of a Hindu lad of thirteen who has just been admitted to the Osmania general hospital at Hyderabad, suffering from a knee joint complaint.

Outwardly nothing is wrong with the boy, but during a routine examination it was discovered that the organs of his chest are completely transposed, the liver being on the left side, heart on the right side, spleen opposite its normal position, while his stomach is in an inverse direction. His intestines lay coiled in the opposite direction.

The boy is healthy, and the phenomena is believed to have been due to twisting during the early weeks of his embryonic life.

Big Day in History

On December 22, 1620, according to the New Calendar, the Pilgrims landed. It was also on this day about two hundred years later, 1907, that congress passed the embargo act, which prohibited all foreign commerce.

Fair Conclusion

When a young man complains that a young lady has no heart, it is pretty certain that she has hit—G. D. Prentice.

Champion Speller

This is Dean Luena of Congress, Ohio, twelve-year-old schoolboy who won the national spelling contest held in Washington. Competing against representatives from thirteen states, he stood up well under the grueling spelling session, finally winning out for the $1,000 top prize.

Putting on Pressure

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

"YOU can move anything if you apply sufficient pressure long enough," Wilson was saying to me. He was in reality thinking of a big freight train stalled in a heavy grade, for Wilson had been a railroad man all his life, and then his thoughts turned to less physical objects and he told me this story to illustrate his theory:

"I was division superintendent at the time," he explained, "and I had got in to the little way station one night long after midnight. A young boy was in charge of the station at night to receive and send such messages as might come or go over the wire, but his main duty was to keep awake.

"When I looked in at the window of his dimly lighted office he was lying on the floor and two men were bending over him swearing and demanding that he open the office safe—which contained at times considerable money. The boys' feet had been thrust through a heavy letter press with the office contained, and an ax handle was being used as a lever to turn the screw. They were torturing the boy in an attempt to force him to open the safe.

"Open it, d—n you," the husky burglar would say, and then he would give the screw another turn upon the boy's feet.

"I will not," the boy would answer, but the pain was becoming more and more intense and would soon have been beyond endurance. I gave a loud yell and crashed my lantern through the window, as the frightened and surprised burglars fled.

"The boy was near fainting when I had released him."

"What would you have done?" I asked him.

"If they had given the screw another turn I should have told. The pressure was getting to be more than I could stand. I'm honest, but—"

"You see, in time," Wilson explains, "we all yield to pressure."

"That's what I said to Sherwin. Sherwin is well bred and is a boy of good principles, but lately he has been running around with fellows who are careless and at times drunken and with girls whose reputations are bad if not their characters."

"You don't need to worry about me," Sherwin assures me. "I know how to take care of myself, and I'm quite safe. They aren't going to get me into trouble. I'm just interested in their point of view."

But the boy has physical desires as other boys have, and like other boys he wants to be thought a good sportsman. Some day he will have a bottle shoved at him or quite unexpectedly a girl with a pretty face and an appealing body will take a final turn of the ax handle and Sherwin will yield to the pressure and he will come home not quite so sober, not quite so clean as he was before. The only thing for him to do is to get out from under the pressure.

"I'm sure I never could be persuaded to do this or that," Gordon says.

You never know until the pressure is applied.

A CASE WHERE YOU LOSE IF YOU WIN

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

(This is one of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)

EVERY person who takes part in one of the many fake real estate raffles that are going on wins because there are no losers, regardless of the numbers they hold. The numbers, in fact, are only the bait to entice people into the scheme. The raffles are what might be termed "come-on" traps to catch investors.

If you have ever tried your luck with a real estate raffle you doubtless felt like giving three cheers when advised that you had won, not knowing that in winning you had taken your first step toward being caught in the trap. You were momentarily overcome with joy over your success which looked to you like the "luck of a lifetime."

Puffed over your good fortune, you hastened out to inspect your newly acquired piece of property. A high-pressure salesman representing the syndicate that was "giving" you the lot walked by your side. After a tiresome trip through an undesirable district the salesman pointed out your new real estate holdings—a narrow, shallow lot, unimproved, uneven, and with no conveniences such as water, sewer, gas and electricity. Not even graded streets or sidewalks. Not worth its taxes!

Before you were fully awake to the fact that you had been tricked your attention was directed away from the unattractive landscape before you to another picture. You were shown another lot, ideal in its location with all modern conveniences soon to be installed, and told that if the lot you drew in the raffle was not entirely satisfactory you would be allowed a credit of $250 for it on one of the more desirable lots being sold "to a few selected people as a special inducement and for a short time only," at the bed rock price of $950. You were urged to take advantage of your further good fortune at being thus selected and to seize the chance to buy one of these special ly priced lots.

"Think of it!" exclaimed the high pressure salesman. "It will take only $700 cash as we are willing to allow you a credit of $250!"

Where You Begin to Lose
Perhaps, as you stood there, you began to suspect that other "winners" had come to view the same lot you had won. If you reached the conclusion that it was being repeatedly used as "bait" you were right. You realized that after all there is nothing free about so-called free things. But others, unfortunately, less suspicious than you, would be impressed by the glowing statements of the high-pressure be delivered to them upon payment of certain expenses in connection with the transfer, which, however, would exceed the actual value of the prize lot.

There is nothing to be gained in participating in fake real estate raffles. There are plenty of legitimate sales. Raffles usually are only bait used to trap you. Of course, you win, but in winning you lose if you go through with it. Before drawing your money out of your savings account to go into a real estate scheme consult your bank or a Better Business Bureau to find out whether it is a bona fide plan. Spend time to save money!

All are of the best quality and well chosen articles. Buy tickets from anyone of the ladies of St. Mary's parish.

The Illinois Coast Artillery band favored the patients and general staff of Mercy hospital with a very fine band concert Wednesday afternoon. There were about forty in the band and every instrument was in perfect harmony. They played such fine selections from Fiest with a variation of popular music. The music was exceptionally fine. Each man was in perfect time and harmony with the next fellow. Their popular music was so full of life and pep that it was with an effort that one kept his feet still. One of the saxophone players showed his ability in two ways, in being able to sing as well as play. This same band, with more pieces, is going to play for the general public in the Grayling band stand Friday evening. You will not regret having heard them.

MANY LOVELY AFFAIRS BEING GIVEN FOR MISS BATES

Among the delightful pre-nuptial affairs given in honor of Miss Bates was a thimble party and kitchen shower at the summer home of Mrs. Esbern Hanson on Saturday afternoon with Mrs. H. A. Bauman, Mrs. Oscar Hanson and Mrs. Esbern Hanson as hostesses.

There were some sixty ladies in attendance and the living rooms, veranda and pavilion were filled with busy groups as dusters, holders and tea towels were hemmed for the home of the bride elect.

Old-fashioned garden flowers were arranged very effectively throughout the rooms, the guest of honor lunch table being centered with pink and white, while four tall tapers in low candlesticks and tied in pink tulle, surrounded this.

Nearly every kitchen accessory was found as the prize packages were unwrapped, except the time honored instrument which Mrs. Jiggs made famous and which the ladies out of sympathy for the groom decided was out of date in the modern apartment.

The occasion was the most delightful of the summer affairs. Mrs. A. J. Joseph and Mrs. B. E. Smith entertained on Wednesday afternoon with a very charming bridge party and personal shower for Miss Bates. Eight tables were arranged for the game amid a profusion of garden flowers which had been attractively arranged. Mrs. Dell Walt held the high score.

Dainty, personal articles for the use of the bride-elect were found in a pink and white receptacle which held the parcels and which were unwrapped later by the guest of honor. The ladies present spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

Personal Experience?

A few weeks ago in one of the state high schools, in an English class, this little episode occurred: The teacher had asked the pupils, for the following day, to write an editorial, and in giving suggestions had said that "puppy love" would be an interesting topic to work up. A member of the class, who was busy copying the assignment when the above statement was made, looked up and innocently inquired: "Does it have to be a personal experience?"—Indianapolis News.

Hobby Is Training Worms

Training worms is the hobby of David Masters, London Journalist and scientist. Leading his visitors to his garden, Masters would take a blade of grass and stroke the back of as much of a worm's body as chanced to be out of its hole in the ground. Immediately the worm would emerge from its hiding place and he would stroke its back, which the worm would arch after a few strokes. "You see, even a worm likes a good turn," Masters tells his friends.

WORK FOR THE RED CROSS

SHARES IN PRIDE

"Yes, Sir, a terrific explosion. The smoke belched out in clouds. Your father was the first to rush into that deadly blackness and bring out a man. Back and forth he went, rescuing several people. I tell you I am proud to belong to the same town as he does."

What a thrill for the whole family when everyone talks of noble heroism such as this. It is just the same if the organization to which you belong does pre-eminent work. For part of it you are responsible and no matter how small the share you feel proud you are in it.

Everyone who is a member of the great American Red Cross family must have tingled as they read that when lightning set the big Lake Denmark arsenal ablaze, the Dover Chapter was in action within five minutes and that the Chapter chair man was the first to rescue a victim. Again and again in major disasters that stir up the country, as in smaller ones of which no one outside the area involved ever hears, the Red Cross is foremost in helping during those first frantic days when families must be fed, clothed, housed temporarily, after losing their all. There are months afterwards in rebuilding destroyed towns and rehabilitating ruined people which doesn't generally find its way into the newspapers because it is undramatic, steady, quiet, day-after-day work that only means everything to the people set again on their feet.

No matter in how small a manner, every one who is a Red Cross member helps to raise a nightmare burden from people deprived of almost everything. But they don't only share in disaster relief. There is the great peacetime war for health, the nutrition, public health nursing and home hygiene and care of the sick services that have already been mentioned. Back of the last two stands the Nursing Service with its enrollment of over 43,000 Red Cross nurses from which they draw the supply of public health nurses and home hygiene instructors. There is also First Aid, giving instruction that often helps those who take the course to save life in emergencies, and life saving that has reduced drowning in the United States by teaching how each one can swim for two so as to effect rescue; war service that still has approximately 100,000 ex-service men to look after every month; volunteer service that calls on its thousands of willing helpers all over the country; for fraternal transcription to give books to the blind, to make garments for women and children without clothes at home and abroad, to make surgical dressings for hospitals or to transport war veterans and workers; and Junior Red Cross that instills in children the habit of service.

Those who are members of the American Red Cross take part in some of the greatest work going on in the United States today. Roll Call is held every year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving. Membership is annual membership and can be taken out or renewed for another year in that period. It means just one dollar, fifty cents of which are retained by the chapter for the work it carries on locally and fifty cents of which go to National Headquarters for its nation-wide program, which becomes international in overwhelming emergencies.

In addition to the dollar membership there are other memberships for those in a position to take greater part in the work; contributing members give $5.00; sustaining members $10.00; supporting members $25.00; life members $50.00; and patron members of $100.00. All the money for the work of the American Red Cross comes voluntarily from the American people so that its great work is their work and each member directly participates in all that is done through his contribution.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

The beginning of July practically marks the opening of the vacation period. During this month and August the most of us try to find a little time in which to forget the worries of work and indulge ourselves in a little play spell.

Nowadays the automobile forms a delectable adjunct in nearly every vacation jaunt. With the rubber-soled vehicle of the highways we are able to reach far more distant, and formerly inaccessible points, than we could in the old days when we had to depend entirely upon the steam horse as a means of transportation. That means that during these two months there is a great increase in highway travel, with its dangers multiplied until they become a real and often dangerous problem.

We can do our part to lessen these dangers by driving carefully and observing the rules of the road. As a rule there is no occasion to hurry, as many a pleasant journey has been turned into a tragedy by senseless speeding. Don't make this mistake. Keep close watch for railroad crossings, enter congested districts with caution, and by all means always drive carefully. It pays big dividends.

FLY-FISHING ON THE AUSABLE

By Ben C. Robinson
Making inquiries as to where would be the best place to locate my camp for a trial at the famous Ausable river fishing, I fortunately bumped into one of the best known anglers in the Michigan woods. Grant Shaw is this man's name, and the folks at Grayling, from the President of the bank of the town, Mr. Hanson, down to the barber, assured me that I was indeed fortunate in getting in with Shaw.

Grant is agent for the Michigan Central railroad at Grayling, and when I made inquiries of him as to the fishing, he assured me that it couldn't be beaten anywhere—out in the vicinity of his summer cottage, ten miles east of the town.

And to make the thing more lasting, Grant offered me the freedom of his cottage for the time I was in the section. Fair enough, eh? So there I was, and below me, flashing like spun gold through the steep-like balsams, and cedar that fringe the shore here, the old Ausable herself, rushing onward as though in a hurry to get somewhere beyond these magnificent woods that cover Grant Shaw's piece of land, of white pine, balsam and lovely silver birch. Why anything should hurry in such a beauty spot is beyond my means of believing.

The first evening we came out to the cottage, we tried the river for rainbow and brook trout. Grant has a long, narrow river boat, such as they use on this river, owing to its swift, shallow and rocky channel, and a specially built outboard motor. We set up the fly rods and Grant spun the motor over. It was a trip hard to forget.

On either side wonderful forests of cedar and pine and birch, the river clothing and rushing toward us. Up the stream a mile away from the landing we cut the motor off and turned the howl down stream. As we came drifting back we cast our flies into eddies and currents in search of a hungry brook trout, a rainbow or a brown trout—all three species of which inhabit the river in goodly numbers.

As we passed under a leaning cedar I cast a number 10 size hook, tied with a Wickham's Fancy fly, into a frothy mill-race of water that poured about an old log. There was a dazzling rise, a leap that fairly glittered in the waning sundown, and I had raised and hooked a fine twelve-inch rainbow trout.

This is sport such as one seldom meets in our woods and waters, and such a chap as Grant Shaw is one of the things also included that one cannot forget in a long time. The evening came down, and fried trout was the order of the evening for us this time. Bacon and trout—yum-yum!—Detroit Free Press, July 10.

A FUNERAL ON MAIN STREET

Sinclair Lewis has pilloried the people of the small town, taking all that is base, rude and crude among the people, and has represented them as the typical majority of all small towns. Either through purposeful dislike or through ignorance, he overlooks or omits all that is fine and sweet and beautiful.

This writer recently attended a funeral in a country town, with his brother and sister and other relations, brought back the mother that she might be laid among her people, her old friends and neighbors. For more than twenty years she had lived in other places, returning only for a few brief visits. Her death had been sudden, and the only notice of it sent to the old home town was to those who made the final arrangements.

The little party on that sad mission reached the town in the forenoon of a beautiful day. Grouped on the platform of the little railway station were scores of those who had been their neighbors and friends, most of whom they had not seen in many years. Someone, without being asked, had chosen eight of those who had been closer and dearer to the family than others to act as helpers. Men had closed their places of business, or had dropped their work in stores, factories, offices or the fields to come.

The church where she had worshipped was heavy with the scent of flowers. Someone had remembered that she always had loved yellow roses, and a great sheaf of them had been gathered in the early morning and brought as a last offering. Others had recalled her love for the great peonies that bloom in that part of the country, and had gathered many bushels of them to offer. The old neighbor, far past ninety, tottered forward to speak words of comfort. Old teachers who had aided her in training her family came, leaving their classes. Farmers from the country drove in, postponing their planting. Doctors from the country left their offices. Catholic, Jewish and Protestant sat together, united and forgetting differences in a common bond of sorrow and sympathy.

At the cemetery, beside the flower blanketed raw earth that was presently to cover her, the group stood, waiting, half shy as if fearing to intrude, a group of colored men and women who had served and helped her to raise her children. Tears flowed down dark cheeks as they bade farewell to one they always had called "Miss" since their mothers bore her as a baby in their arms.

Afterwards, throughout the village, groups of old friends and neighbors gathered and, between smiles and tears, gently told little incidents of long-ago thoughtfulness or of some helpful deed or word.

She was only a mother, living her life in her own restricted sphere, doing well the small work that became hers to do, unselfishly and so unobtrusively she perhaps thought none knew of it. Yet all remembered each little kindness and good deed through these years and came to regret that she was not the city may be the place to live and strive and work in, but the country town is the place in which to die. Those who write of the narrowness and bigotry of the small town must themselves look upon it through the mist of cynicism, a source of bitterness to the people who fail to see the beauty of its sympathy, the depth of its love and charity which is loved passes away.—Liberty.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. B. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Eighteen years ago an Italian manufacturer, noting the steady column of things being coming from the ground in an Italian mountain valley, conceived the idea that this steam could be made to drive an engine. He set up the necessary equipment and soon was running the machinery in his plant with power which nature had been wasting.

This is a picture of the utilization of volcanic steam has been successfully followed in many parts of the world. In Bolivia the government has granted a concession through which steam from Mt. Tatío will be made use of in generating electrical energy for Bolivian railroads.

Engineers at the Tuller company, particularly Yellowstone Park, possesses untold sources of wealth of this description. Mechanical engineers are becoming more and more interested in the problem of utilizing the tides of the sea for generating electric power. English engineers have stated that it is only a matter of time until the tidal activities in the harbors of southern England will be made use of, while engineers in the United States and Canada are interested in studies being made of the problem of making use of the tides in the Bay of Fundy.

The development of hydro-electric power, which in recent years has reached large proportions, is, in the opinion of many experts, only in its infancy.

Scientists are experimenting, with apparent hopes of success, in utilizing the sun's rays and the wind as sources of power.

The development of these projects not only provides an interesting study as to what the next 50 or 100 years will bring in the daily lives of the people, but illustrates the great fundamental truth that thrift, conservation and efficiency are among the impelling factors in all human progress.

SWAT THE HOUSE FLY

The dangerous housefly needs attention now. The fly is born in the mud and will spend its life in it if it could have its own way. It takes only a comparatively few days to raise a generation of flies and in the ordinary warm summer season seven generations may be produced. Most homes are now fairly well protected against this disease spreading insect. Screens, traps and fly paper are in general use in the fly season. The pest cannot be abated entirely, however, unless its breeding places are cleaned up. Every patron should insist on protection from flies of food and drink in stores, restaurants and dairies. In every citizen will find good example in fighting the fly with every means at his command, community action will come in time.

Black and White Models Are Favored for Summer

Among the favored combinations for summer appear black and white models in all sorts of striking arrangements. Black dresses of silk, satins or georgettes are seen with satin or silk coats of black trimmed with white fur or of fabrics. Black and white printed silk dresses also combine themselves strikingly with coats of black trimmed with white.

Ann Rork, First National star, wears a smart ensemble of black and white. It consists of a black satin coat that features a cape effect and a collar of snowy ermine. A white flower, too, decorates the shoulder. Underneath is worn a trim gown of black also smartly combined with white. A small black hat, shoes, hose and exquisitely headed purse with white background complete the details of a smart ensemble.

ANNOUNCE DATE FOR M. S. C. FARMER'S DAY

Annual Summer Conference To Be Held Aug. 4—New Features Are Planned

East Lansing, June 14.—Summer Farmers' Day at Michigan State College will be held on Thursday, August 4th, this year, and plans are being completed for the entertainment of farmers at their annual summer conference which has become the outstanding meeting of its kind in the state. The day has been changed this year from Friday to Thursday.

MICHIGAN'S NEW CRIME CODE

Instead of following the example of New York and proposing sundry amendments for the modernization of the old criminal procedure, it was the sense of the Michigan commission that its best course was to wipe the slate clean and submit an entirely new code so drawn as to meet the needs of a new era. Such a code was proposed and finally adopted.

Some members of the Michigan bar thought the innovations went a little too far. The criminal element was unanimously opposed to many provisions of the new code. Certain criminal lawyers were hostile to it for obvious reasons. Nevertheless, both houses of the legislature had the good sense to take the report of their experts at its face value and to pass the code without any hamstringing amendments. Gov. Fred W. Green, who loyally supported the commission, shares with his house and senate the credit for this highly important piece of constructive legislation.

In California, after a lively tussle, the legislature was prevailed upon to enact without much mutilation, the admirable body of new laws sponsored by the Tuller commission. California and Michigan thus divide honors for being among the first to adopt virtually complete criminal codes at a single stroke.—Saturday Evening Post.

READY MONEY PREFERRED

I like to pay my debts promptly; not for a noble reason, but because I hear dead beats abused so much. For fifty years and more I have heard collectors growl viciously at dead beats; so I like to pay promptly. I not only clean up every debt I owe at the end of the month, but when possible, I prefer to pay cash as I go. My credit is actually as good as his money. I know hundreds of men who are being injured because collectors "talk" about them. Most of these men finally pay in full. If a man intends to finally pay his bills, it is extremely foolish to be slow about it.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

TAKE AWAY THEIR AUTO

(By Erwin Greer, President Greer School of Electrical & Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

More rigid license requirements for motor vehicle drivers are advocated. Men responsible for promoting safety in congested traffic seem to feel that they were not getting a full measure of co-operation from the authorities whose duties are to determine who shall and who shall not drive.

No matter how efficient traffic patrolmen may be, accidents cannot be prevented unless the licensing system is strict enough to weed out the mentally and physically unfit. The position was taken that no man or woman not physically fit, mentally sound and thoroughly trained as a driver should be permitted to drive a motor vehicle.

Subjecting speed-law violators arraigned in court to mental tests has established an interesting precedent in automobile penology, those who have been watching a Detroit judge, so rightfully renowned, believe. His theory is that defendants of sound mind should receive stiffer penalties than those found to be defective. This accords with the principles of criminal law and his discovery of three persons of deficient mentality brought before him in a batch of speeders proves the value of the tests. Why should the courts be called upon to judge the mental equipment of those who violate the law when it is perfectly easy to determine with just as much certainty the status of an applicant for a driver's license? No person should be allowed the right to drive an automobile if his faculties are not up to par. All in all, it is not so much a question of keeping the defective driver out of jail as of keeping him out of the privilege of driving a car.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce says:

Take away the cars of the careless drivers.

Punish the reckless and intoxicated operators until they recognize the rights of the great majority of law-abiding and careful motorists.

Investigation of accident causes—in which newspapers throughout the country are now co-operating—will point the way for proper remedies.

Safety education in the schools is reducing accidents.

Thorough analysis of traffic movement, regulation and facilities is needed in each city.

'Defunct' Cataract

What is known as the Grand coulee of the Columbia river is a cliff more than 400 feet high with the Columbia at its foot. This is evidence of the presence at one time of a great cataract over which the river once flowed, producing a spectacle grander and probably grander than Niagara.
